A Pastor's Gleanings

As we enter March this year, we find ourselves in uncertain times. War continues in Ukraine with devastating loss of life and infrastructure. In Canada we face a looming trade war with America, threatening our economic well being. There are estimates that 500,000 jobs are at risk just in the Province of Ontario alone. The consequences here in Alberta are unknown, bringing shadows of uncertainty over our future.

March also brings an expectation of longer, warmer days as the spring equinox approaches. We long for spring and I think most of us long for certainty. The sun is higher in the sky dispelling the long cold darkness of winter. Of this we can be certain.

As we look forward to spring think about this. When walking towards the sun, our shadow falls behind us. Otherwise, when we walk away from the sun, we are walking in our shadow.

John the Apostle wrote this about Jesus. "In him was life, and the life was the light of men. The light shines in darkness and the darkness has not overcome it." (John 1:4-5) Jesus tells us that when we come to him, we will find rest for our souls. When we face the Son, the shadows of uncertainty, anxiety and fear are dispelled. Their darkness cannot overcome his light.

As darkness is overcome by light, uncertainty can be replaced by the certain surety of Christ's promises to us. "Jesus Christ the same yesterday today and forever." (Hebrews 13:8) His call remains "Come to me."

DISENFRANCHISED GRIEF

Disenfranchised grief refers to grief that is not openly acknowledged, socially supported, or publicly mourned. This type of grief is often felt by individuals whose loss is not recognized as significant by others, or who do not have the space to grieve openly. This may occur because the relationship with the deceased is not seen as socially acceptable or because the grief is hidden.

One example of disenfranchised grief includes the death of an ex-spouse or partner. Though a relationship ended, there is often an emotional bond that persists. When people lose an ex-partner, others may not understand the dynamics of this emotional bond and may not take their grief as valid. Pet loss is another example of disenfranchised grief. Many do not understand or accept the role that pets play in people's lives, and therefore, the loss of pets does not seem as significant as losing a human loved one. Miscarriage or stillbirth can also lead to experiencing disenfranchised grief and these losses are often considered hidden grieving experiences. Further, those who lose a loved one to suicide may also be navigating disenfranchised grief. The grief experienced by loved ones of someone who has taken their own life can be compounded by feelings of shame or stigma, leading to less support and understanding. These are just a few of the many experiences of disenfranchised grief.

The following symptoms of disenfranchised grief may be experienced:

1. Feelings of Isolation: Individuals experiencing disenfranchised grief often feel alone in their grief, lacking the typical support expected during times of grief.
2. Shame or Guilt: Individuals may question whether it is legitimate grief or wondering if they have the "right" to grieve.
3. Suppressed or Delayed Grief: In some cases, individuals may try to push their grief aside because it isn't recognized by others, which can lead to unprocessed emotions that can be delayed.
4. Confusion or Ambivalence: Individuals may feel uncertain about how to express their grief or whether it is acceptable to feel sad or devastated.
5. Anger or Frustration: Anger can arise from feeling that the loss is not acknowledged, or from a sense that the grief is being minimized by others.

Difficulty Finding Closure: Since others may not acknowledge the grief, it becomes difficult for individuals to find closure or healing.

Accessing support from grief counsellors or therapists and/or connecting with grief support groups can be helpful for navigating the symptoms experienced with disenfranchised grief.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A Night of Laughter, Connection, and Community: Marwayne Ladies Night Out Returns in Support of the Agriplex Improvement Project

Marwayne, AB – February 2025

In small communities like Marwayne, the places where we gather are more than just buildings—they are the heart of our town, the spaces where friendships are formed, families come together, and memories are made. On March 29, 2025, the 3rd Annual Marwayne Ladies Night Out offers an evening of connection and entertainment, all while raising funds for the Agriplex Improvement Project.

This year's event will feature Jennie Ogilvie: Canada's Unconventional Medium, a speaker known for her sharp wit, engaging storytelling, and ability to bring people together. Her performances are a mix of humour, honesty, and insight, making this an evening unlike any other. The event will take place at the Marwayne Community Hall, doors open at 6:30 PM, with Jennie taking the stage at 7:00 PM. Enjoy charcuterie and cash bar, and shop the silent auction items and raffle tickets for amazing prizes!

A Community Gathering for a Cause

While Ladies Night Out promises an evening of fun, the event is about something much bigger—investing in the future of our community. Every ticket sold and every dollar raised will go toward the Agriplex Improvement Project, an initiative dedicated to upgrading both the arena and curling rink. These improvements will ensure that Marwayne remains a hub for recreation, sport, agriculture, and cultural events for generations to come.

The Agriplex is where young athletes take their first strides on skates, where families cheer from the stands, and where lifelong friendships are formed. But after years of wear and tear, the facilities need critical upgrades to continue serving the community at its best.

Funds from this year's event will contribute to:

- Replacing the arena ice surface and brine lines
- Installing a new ice plant to serve both the curling rink and arena
- Enhancing the arena with new boards, plexiglass, and bleachers

The Marwayne Ag Society, alongside its dedicated Task Force, has worked tirelessly to bring this vision to life. With a total budget of $3 million, this multi-phase project will help ensure that the Agriplex remains a cornerstone of the Marwayne community for years to come.

Every ticket purchased for Ladies Night Out is a step toward securing the future of the Agriplex, ensuring that it continues to be a place where memories are made and community spirit thrives. Tickets are available for purchase online at bit.ly/MarwayneLadiesNightOutTickets.
